The seller identifies the disclosed liens and title restrictions below. No statement in this record confirms that a lien has been paid, that an agency has transferred title or that a third party has consented.

Indiana Code 26-1-2-201, amended by 2023 Public Law 199, Section 5; effective July 1, 2023: a goods-sale contract priced at $500 or more generally needs a signed record indicating the sale. Enforcement under the general rule is limited to the stated quantity. Merchant confirmations and the statutory exceptions can change the result; this is not a rule that every sale must use a particular bill-of-sale form.

The reviewed section addresses a signed record and enforceability. It does not establish a universal notarization or witness requirement for a private goods-sale record. Specialized transactions and other applicable laws may impose additional requirements.

Identify the goods and quantity precisely: the general signed-record rule does not permit enforcement beyond the quantity shown.

A merchant confirmation, specially manufactured goods, an admission in court, or accepted payment or goods can affect the statutory analysis. A missing signature does not by itself settle every dispute.

FTC guidance distinguishes merchant implied warranties from a private seller's transaction. A written warranty or service contract can restrict an attempted implied-warranty disclaimer.

Describe known defects and actual express promises. This template contains no blanket waiver of every warranty or remedy.
